Do-it-Yourself Phones

By NANCY STANCILL

There's a new store in Daly City.

It doesn't offer clothes, cars or food for sale. Telephones are its merchandise.

Daly City is the first location in the Bay Area for a Pacific Telephone Phone Center Store. The store opened April 1 at Pacific Telephone's offices at 271 92nd St.

New customers, in most cases, may select their telephones at the store, take them home and install the instruments themselves.

By the end of the day, new customers should have "dial tone" for a working telephone, according to J.H. Howe Jr., manager of the Daly City office.

By taking advantage of the Phone Center, the customer can save $4 installation fee and get telephone service quicker, Howe points out.

The manager explains that the "do-it-yourself" service is the result of Pacific Telephone's attempt to modularize its system.

Telephones are being designed in several parts that snap together. The cord easily plugs into the modular jack in the wall, something a customer, rather than an installer, can do.

However, only about 2,400 residences in the Daly City area have modular hookup presently. Howe says the number is increasing daily.

He explains that Pacific Telephone now installs modular jacks on every disconnect order or new installation.

Modularization will be a gradual process. Howe hopes to have 25 per cent of his area completed in a year and 50 per cent by five years.

Howe says any new customer order is checked by a quick microfilm process. If modular hookups are available in the customer's residence, the customer is told about the PhoneCenter.

Headway Made On BART Area Parking Plan

Preferential parking for Daly City residents squeezed out of their neighborhoods by commuter parkers, moved a step closer to reality Monday.

The City Council agreed to consider adoption of a procedural ordinance at its meeting next Monday. The matter was discussed Monday night at a council study session.

The proposed ordinance would specify provisions by which a Daly City neighborhood would be considered for preferential parking privileges.

A study just completed by a council committee recommends that portions of Vista Grande, Westlake and Crocker residential areas be designated for preferential parking.

Council members pointed out that the areas are seriously affected by the presence of the nearby BART station and San Francisco Bus Lines and the commuter parking they generate.

However, city officials emphasized that the procedural ordinance will not bring immediate preferential parking privileges to the neighborhoods.

Environmental assessments of each neighborhood will be required before the council decides on the privileges and designates the areas.

In the proposed procedural ordinance, it also is recommended that the city have "some indication that at least one-third of the residents desire designation. Petition by residents would meet this requirement."

Representatives of the Old Daly City Protective Association, one of the organizations consulted by the committee on preferential parking, have obtained petitions from some of the affected neighborhoods.

The proposed ordinance provides for restricted parking in designated areas between 5 and 10 a.m. and calls for the issuance of both permits and fines to enforce it.

In other study session matters, it was noted that the City Council has the option to increase the salary of council members as much as 15 to 20 per cent.

City officials pointed out that councilmen's salaries, presently $337.50 monthly, have not been increased since 1973 and state law allows a 5 per cent annual adjustment.

The council could authorize a 15 per cent jump before June 30 or a 20 per cent hike after the new fiscal year begins.

Council members proposed no action on the matter.

In another discussion, City Engineer David Macabee noted that Daly City's water use last week fell 30 per cent from that of a year ago. Macabee said the average water use decreased for the past four weeks has been 23 per cent.

The council discussed a proposal to buy 18 street lights from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for Mission Street and indicated it would approve the purchase.

Following the study session, the council adjourned to a lengthy executive session to discuss employe negotiations on contracts for the upcoming fiscal year.

Mission Traffic Signal Contract

In a special meeting Monday night, Daly City's City Council awarded an $18,638 contract for a traffic signal system for Junipero Serra Boulevard and Westlake Avenue.

The work will be done by low bidder Steiny and Co. of Vallejo.

In other business, the council set a May 25 public hearing date to discuss the proposed vacation of portions of several streets within the boundaries of Hillside Park.

According to Community Development Director Don Fleming, the vacated portions of East Moltke, Bismark and Florence Streets and Wyandotte and Lausanne Avenues would be used to create a park parcel.

The council also approved a personnel policy change to retain applicants on employment lists for longer periods of time.

Man Falls Through Nursery's Glass Roof

A 52-year-old man was fighting for his life today after he suffered a possible fractured neck and head injuries when he fell through the glass roof of a South San Francisco greenhouse Monday, Sheriff's Deputy Michael A. Pugliese reported.

In critical condition at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco is Earl E. Howard of 1153 Brussels Ave., San Francisco. He was injured in the accident at the Rod McLellan Co. Nursery, 1450 El Camino Real.

Howard was working with Juvenal Rodrigues Gomez, 28, of 589 Hillside Blvd., Colma, when the accident occurred.

Gomez reported he and Howard had been washing windows on top of a hot house, and Howard had walked down a gutter drain, also used as a catwalk, with a garden hose.

Gomez said he was feeding the hose to Howard, when Howard apparently tried to jerk the hose to get more slack and lost his balance.

Another employe reported he heard glass break and Gomez yell. He looked down and saw Howard, unconscious, lying on a concrete island, surrounded by 6-foot high rose bushes inside the glass house.

Pugliese, who said the original report was of a fatal accident, said Howard took out three panes when he fell. He said the victim's handprints were on an adjoining pane where he apparently grabbed in an attempt to stop his fall.

Howard fell about eight feet, according to Pugliese. He said Howard never regained consciousness, and emergency physicians at the hospital refused to predict his chances of survival.

Federal Employes Form Group

Federal employes, working and retired, are invited to join the National Association of Retired Federal Employes (NARFE) which is forming a chapter in Daly City.

Its purpose is to preserve earned annuities and cost-of-living increases, according to Jane Brulez, secretary.

The group meets the third Thuzsday of each month at Breuners, 301 Gellert Ave. (in Serramonte). The next meeting will be Thursdayfrom 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

NEW MISS PACIFICA

Laurie Raffo won the top honors in the Miss Pacifica contest Saturday. She also was named Miss Congeniality.

Pacifica Crowns TN Student

A 17-year-old Terra Nova High School senior, Laurie Raffo, was crowned Miss Pacifica Saturday night.

Marcia Ann Brinkley was the first runner-up; Ronalda Nicholas and Pamela Jean Harris the second and third runners-up.

There were three other contestants in the annual event, held in the Terra Nova gymnasium. It provided scholarships and a variety of other awards for the winners.

Laurie Lee Shaefer, Miss America of 1972, was the mistress of ceremonies. She introduced such local dignitaries as Mayor Sid Lorvan, Councilman Stan Farber, a former mayor, and two past mayors, Miss Grace McCarthy and Aubrey Lumley.

The pageant was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. The winner will compete in the Miss California Pageant at Santa Cruz in June.

Action on DC Transfer Site Delayed Again

A decision on Daly City's proposal to construct a solid waste transfer station at Mussel Rock dump site has been postponed again.

The Central Coast Zone Conservation Commission, meeting Monday in Santa Cruz, declined to act on the garbage transfer station matter.

Commission members said they needed time to study the Easley and Brassy Corp. report, an evaluation of seven proposed sites for the joint Daly City-Pacifica transfer facility.

The report, commissioned by Daly City, was completed little more than a week ago and reached commission offices just last week.

Commissioners pointed out that staffers had not had ample time to study and comment on the Easly and Brassy report before Monday's meeting.

The Mussel Rock matter will come up again May 2.

The consultant's report concludes that of three possible coastside sites, "the Mussel Rock site is the only one . . . which has a reasonably high probability of approval" by the Central Coast Zone Conservation Commission.

The othger two coastal sites are in the QPI Quarry area and at the Coastside Scanvenger Co. location.

The Mussel Rock proposal was brought up initially at the March commission meeting, but postponed for further staff and public comment.

The proposed transfer station would be used to switch garbage from small to large transport trucks for hauling to the county's Ox Mountain dump site near Half Moon Bay. It would be operated by Daly City and the Daly City Scavenger Co.

The present dumping operation at Mussel Rock has been ordered stopped by Aug. 15, because the state fears landsliding of garbage and possible pollution of the ocean.

But the Easley and Brassy report indicates that if a transfer station were under construction by the Aug. 15 deadline, the dumping operation might be extended by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The report pointed out that it would be "unlikely" that the proposed transfer station could be designed and completed by Aug. 15.

The Mussel Rock site has received the unanimous support of the Daly City and Pacifica city councils. Only two area residents have expressed opposition to the proposed location.

A CRUSHING JOB

Pacifica Recycling Center

Youths Hired to Help

The Pacifica Recycling Center had a problem: there were plenty of goods to recycle but not enough people to help do the sorting.

Helen Murawski, president of the center, came up with a solution: a Conservation Corps. The center is hiring youths from 12 to 18 years old to work on the premises during weekends.

"Lots of adults have full time jobs and can't put in the hours, but seem willing to contribute to a program hiring youths in their place," said Mrs. Murawski.

Some funds are generated from the recycled materials, but not enough, she said. So those who come to drop off refuse are asked to contribute 35 cents each.

"On the first Saturday, we took in $10.70 and were able to pay three youths," said Mrs. Murawski.

Those young people who gave up a Saturday during their Easter vacation to pack newspapers and sort bottles and tin were Sean Ramsey, Rene Azevedo and Teresa Fauzzi.

Youths work for free the first hour and are paid $2.50 for the second hour; they received $3.25 if they work 2½ hours, which is usually the maximum time required to do the job.

Only "former volunteers" are eligible for the paid program, those who have worked on a voluntary basis at least two times.

Although the program has just begun, Mrs. Murawski has been talking it up for so long that she has a nest egg of contributions with which to pay more volunteers.

She urges youths interested in working for the program to contact her at 359-5353.

Trustees Elect New Presidents

Eleanore Nettle was elected president of the board of trustees of the San Mateo County Community College District Wednesday night.

The vote was 5-0. She replaces James Tormey.

However, the vote was not unanimous for clerk of the board.

James Rudolph got that post on a 4-1 vote. Robert Tarver voted against his appointment.

This morning, however, Tarver said he actually wanted to vote against Nettle.

"I preferred Jim Tormey for the position," Tarver said. "I nominated him. I just think he would do a better job. Don't you?

"It's nothing personal with Eleanore. I'm sure she will make a fine president too. You can't always have pat hands on a board."

District officials have recorded his no vote as a vote against Rudolph.

Meanwhile, in the San Mateo Union High School District, Elizabeth Curtis was elected president of the board of trustees Wednesday.

She replaces Carol Gonella.

A Plea to Supervisors

By RICK SULLIVAN

The elderly, the blind, the indigent and the disabled jammed the chambers of the County Board of Supervisors this week to plead for increased appropriation of federal revenue-sharing money to fund community social programs.

For two hours they addressed the board, emphasizing the "critical need" for improving the community services which train and educate, feed and house the needy.

The group left the chamber without a board commitment.

The supervisors delayed Tuesday any decision to allocate a specific amount of revenue-sharing funds to community based organizations pending a board subcommittee meeting with the staff of the Health and Welfare Department.

Lorene Wilson, a member of a group called the National Survival Union, urged the board not to use the forthcoming federal funds "to maintain the property tax rate status quo."

She said such a decision would be a "do-nothing community act and would cater to the narrow, selfish interests of the high income population of the county."

Last year the board opted to use some $3 million of the approximately $7 million in revenue-sharing funds to pay for county operating expenses in the Assessor's Office and the Parks and Recreation Department. Such an appropriation held down the tax rate.

Some $555,000 was allocated to community groups.

This year, the county expects to receive only about $3.7 million in federal revenue-sharing funds, and it still needs to fund the continuing operation of the two county departments.

Mrs. Wilson echoed the feelings of the beleaguered group when she demanded that revenue-sharing funds be committed to social programs that would "wage full scale attack upon racism, and social problems in the county."

"We need funds to develop a renewed belief among thousands of our county populations who have lost faith in our county government," she said.

In recent months, a representative of the board, county and municipalities, Bay Area charities and private philanthropic organizations have joined in a voluntary partnership to coordinate social programs in the county with available financial resources.

The group is called the Human Services Coordinating Council.

Dr. George Pickett, director of the County Health and Welfare Department, whose staff belongs to a technical advisory group to the council, presented recommendations to the board for disbursal of the revenue-sharing funds for community programs.

He suggested on behalf of the technical group that

Phones

Besides saving $4 in installation and getting a same-day dial tone, the customer doesn't have to set up an appointment and wait around for the installer to drop in.

During the first week of operation, Pacific Telephone representives like Charlene White assisted about 12 new customers at the PhoneCenter.

Ms. White answered customer questions about the different instrument models displayed in the bright store area and took an order.

She went to the supply room, picked up the instrument, its cord and headpiece. She quickly snapped the parts together and demonstrated to the customer how to plut it into the wall.

She then bundled up the equipment and placed it into a heavy-duty shopping bag for the customer, who left smiling.

Howe said customers who have been eligible for the take-it-with-you service have been very pleased with it so far.

Other PhoneCenters will open in San Mateo County later this year. South San Francisco and San Mateo will get them June 8 and a Redwood City store will open Nov. 3.

Howe said that by the end of 1977, nearly all of Pacific Telephone's 145 business offices will have PhoneCenters.

Pacifican Acquitted In Forcible Rape Trial

A jury has acquitted George M. Martin III, 32, of Pacifica, of rape and oral copulation charges, asserting that it disbelieved the testimony of a 20-year-old woman who had claimed Martin forcibly sexually assaulted her last September.

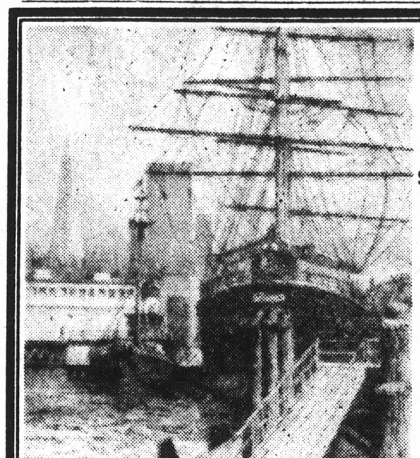

The verdict was returned to San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Robert E. Carey Wednesday after a two-day trial.

Martin, represented by attorney Patricia Roma, and the woman whom he picked up as a hitchhiker, told conflicting versions of the events.

Prosecutor Michael Land said Martin testified that the woman was a willing participant and became angry with him for refusing to go with her to a Santa Cruz beach.

The woman testified that Martin forcibly raped her.

Martin testified that after he told the woman he would not be going with her to the beach, she said, "I will get you for this."

Beatings, Holdup Keep SSF Busy

Three separate incidents kept South San Francisco police busy Monday night.

Two officers responding to a domestic disturbance call at 7:40 p.m. said they arrived to find a man, who allegedly had been drinking, trying to drive.

When the officers tried to arrest him, a police spokesman said, the man punched Officer Bill Osborn in the face and kicked Officer David Ferree in the stomach and head.

Arrested on suspeician of being intoxicated in a vehicle, resisting arrest and assault and battery on police officers was Arturo Portillo, 20, 201 Pine Terrace, South San Francisco.

At 8:30 p.m., officers arrived at 530 Railroad Ave. to find the manager of the apartment house there, Malcolm Harlen, 29, lying in the driveway. He allegedly had been beaten by three men who were visiting a tenant at the apartment house and also reportedly had been bitten by their dog.

Booked on suspiciion of battery upon a person, resulting in great bodily injury, were Manuel Joseph Aravalo, 24, Johnny D. Kano, 23, and Milton Joseph Bartholomew, 25, all of San Francisco.

Police then said that an armed robbery occurred at the Standard service station at 1198 Mission Road at 9:25 p.m.

Station attendant Robert A. Beaudoin was on duty, police said, when a white male adult in his 20s came up behind him nd pointed a revolver at him.

The man allegedly led Reaudoin at gunpoint to the cash box and escaped with an unknown amount of coins and currency, then told Beaudoin, "Don't watch me leave or I'll kill you," and escaped in an unknown direction.

75 years ago this week
James Cash Penney opened his first store in Kemmerer, Wyoming.

Today everything has changed except what's important.

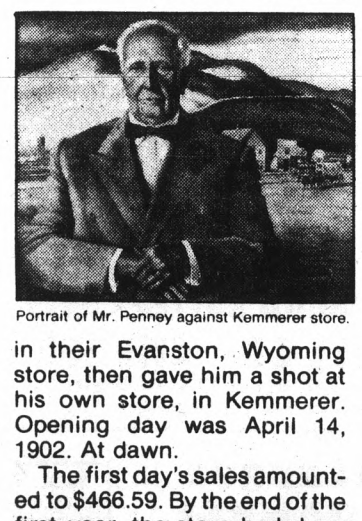

On April 14, 1902, James Cash Penney unlocked the door of his new store and started the business. He was 27. He'd been in dry goods since he was nineteen.

"I went to work in Hale's store (J.M. Hale & Brother, Hamilton, Missouri) at the age of nineteen. The sum of $2.27 a month was certainly modest pay. But I felt strangely contented."

Penney had to leave Hale's store and Hamilton because of his health. A doctor sent him off to Colorado (which must have been good advice; he lived to be 95).

He got a job in Longmont, near Denver, with a retail chain of several stores.

The firm sent him to work

Portrait of Mr. Penney against Kemmerer store.

in their Evanston, Wyoming store, then gave him a shot at his own store, in Kemmerer. Opening day was April 14, 1902. At dawn.

The first day's sales amounted to $466.59. By the end of the first year, the store had done $29,000 worth of business. By 1907, Mr. Penney had saved enough to buy out his partners and the company took off. In 1913, 36 Golden Rule Stores were incorporated as the J.C. Penney Company.

Fashion. From an early Penney newspaper advertisement and from a current ad.

In 1924 the company acquired its 500th store, J.M. Hale & Brother in Hamilton, Missouri. Remember? In 1941, the company opened store number 1600.

In 1971, James Cash Penney died. The only ambition he had that he didn't achieve was to live to be a hundred. He only missed by 5 years. The company he founded is 75 years old this week.

Generally we look ahead and focus on the changes in the Penney Company. There've been plenty of them. But on a birthday—and a 75th birthday to boot—it seems appropriate to talk about the things that never change, because they're grounded in the basic needs and wants and expectations of human beings.

There are things you expect from your Penney store that haven't changed at all—like getting good value for your money, like being treated as the welcome guest you are, like getting complete satisfaction if ever anything goes wrong.

All these things are as important to us and to you on April 14, 1977 as they were to James Cash Penney and his customers on that famous day of April 14, 1902.

Thank you for reading all these words. We probably won't write another ad like this till April, 2002. Watch for it.

THE PENNEY IDEA
Adopted 1913

1. To serve the public, as nearly as we can, to its complete satisfaction.
2. To expect for the service we render a fair remuneration and not all the profit the traffic will bear.
3. To do all in our power to pack the customer's dollar full of value, quality and satisfaction.
4. To continue to train ourselves and our associates so that the service we give will be more and more intelligently performed.
5. To improve constantly the human factor in our business.
6. To reward men and women in our organization through participation in what the business produces.
7. To test our every policy, method and act in this wise: "Does it square with what is right and just?"

In the year 1913 the Penney partners approved this code of principles to guide them. "The Penney Idea" became, and is today, a moral as well as business basis for decision-making.

JCPenney. Everything has changed except what's important.

Brothers, Sisters! Here's How It's Done

By JANET PARKER

Marjoe Gartner was only 4 years old when he learned the art of crowd manipulation.

The lesson has been a lucrative one. It paid off again Wednesday night at Skyline College in San Bruno.

Guided by a mother obsessed with turning her child into a religious idol and buoyed by his father, who was a minister in his own right, Marjoe gained worldwide fame as the child-preacher — a modern-day miracle maker.

More than 20 years later the adult Marjoe exposed the whole religious sham in a 1973 Academy Award winning movie, "Marjoe."

But preaching of a different kind brought Marjoe to Skyline this week.

After launching a career as a guest star in television series (including Kojak, Police Story and Medical Center) the one-time fully ordained minister in the Old Faith Church appeared at the local college by special request of the Community Services Division.

As a bleach-blond toddler, Marjoe worked parishioners into a frenzy while reaping a fortune for his family through the collection plate.

Marjoe, now 32, again is reaping a fortune.

He was billed by Skyline as a lecturer demonstrating the kinds of persuasion and manipulation practiced by leaders ranging from Jesus Christ to Hitler.

But the only art of manipulation demonstrated by Marjoe Wednesday night was his own.

For one hour's work on the stage in an off-the-cuff presentation, Marjoe collected a fee of $1,500.

Dressed in a tweed jacket with leather elbow patches, a vinyl vest and a wool lumberman-style shirt, Marjoe smiled for the television camera.

He's telling about his mother — an "Amy Semple McPherson type," he says — who made him what he is today.

"I did it because I had to," he says, "because I was a child. As a child, I really wasn't responsible for what I did."

He's not bitter about the kind of childhood he had, he said.

"I enjoyed the people — the workout," he said. "By the time I was 5 I had been all over the world."

He says he got about 10 years of on-the-job acting school. He was forced by his parents, he said, to memorize and rehearse and sputter out pages and pages of sermons.

His father, who is still the minister of a church in Escondido — owns land all over the Bay Area, he said. And he believes his mother — he hasn't seen her in years — is living in Half Moon Bay.

His parents, he said, are responsible for leading him into an adult career that "I really am happy for."

"I wish them well," he said of his parents.

While an audience of 250 downstairs watched his 85-minute award winning documentary movie (which most weren't expecting when they paid $3 and $3.50 admission), Marjoe faced a television camera upstairs.

For 45 minutes, he laughed, smiled and joked his way through the taping for an evening news-feature program.

The camera lights clicked off and three local reporters gathered around his chair to pose a few questions.

"I really wish you would ask these questions at the lecture," Marjoe responded. Reporters tried again.

"Are you going to the lecture?" Reporters nodded. "I'm going to be too worn out to do anything for them if I answer all these questions again," he said.

Then the camera lights clicked back on, and he talked to the television interviewers for five more minutes.

As the movie ended in the theater below, Marjoe appeared at the podium and the mostly college-age crowd cheered.

Marjoe says he's not insisting that all organized religion is evil and wrong.

"There are many churches that do good things and I'm all for that," Marjoe said. "But most churches," he said, "refuse to let people question and explore ideas.

"It's not economically profitable for a church to say, 'Believe in yourself'," he said. No one would come back.

Every organized religion, he claims, takes one and only point of view — its own. And every religion, he adds, wants "you to get into their thing."

"What I don't like is the attitude of condemnation — 'If you don't believe in Christ, you'll burn in hell'," he says.

He utters an obscenity when asked his opinion of the Unification Church, the pulpit of the Rev. Sun Yun Moon.

"I think it's a big bunch of bull," he said. "He really wants to own their minds."

He admits that anyone who puts on a show aimed at dominating thought is "messing with heads."

"Young people are so confused and turned off by religion that they have to go out and find a new religion," Marjoe said. "It's amazing how they are all swept up."

Many want to be controlled or dominated by a "Moonie" or some kind of cult, he says. But if they believe in themselves (which he says he does) they don't need a guru or a god or anyone else.

"It's too bad people have to go to a guru or a doctor to be healed," he said. "It's really all mind over matter."

Guided by his parents, Marjoe preached until the collections grew small and he grew weary at 13 years. Soon, his parents parted company.

CHINESE COOKING

One reason that, as a nation, the Chinese are slender, is because they cook with little fat, use nutritious broths and sauces and have little use for rich pastries and sweets.

If a child lives with criticism,
He learns to condemn.
If a child lives with hostility,
He learns to fight.
If a child lives with ridicule,
He learns to feel guilty.
If a child lives with tolerance,
He learns to be patient.
If a child lives with encouragement,
He learns confidence.
If a child lives with praise,
He learns to appreciate.
If a child lives with fairness,
He learns justice.
If a child lives with security,
He learns to have faith.
If a child lives with approval,
He learns to like himself.
If a child lives with acceptance and friendship,
He learns to find love in the world.

With this poem by Dorothy Law Nolte, Dr. Thomas Tutko and William Burns introduce one of the chapters of their book, "Winning Is Everything and Other American Myths" (Macmillan 1976, $8.95)

Here is strong indictment of the hardnosed, competitive motif that americans have built into athletics. The authors say that the win at all costs syndrome is harmful to America. It overruns both the winners and the losers with neurotic behavior, with "acts of violence and outright green." It leads us "to tolerate almost anything in the name of winning — cruelty, insensitivity, drugs, cheating and lying — as long as the winners don't get caught."

Tutko and Burns charge "that the long-treasured belief that competition brings out the best in man is clearly a bizarre one in light of what is happening. The reverse is increasingly the case: competition brings out the worst in man." In hypocrisy, americans speak of fair play but "allow their pro-athletes to flaunt long-held virtues such as loyalty, sportsmanship, and altruism with near impunity." Even the sports pages, "once a haven from the ugly realities headlined elsewhere in the newspaper, now read like a scandal sheet with exposes, fights, sexual exploits, strikes, racism, recruiting abuses, verbal assaults, accusations," they say.

Yet communities foster the "winning is everything" syndrome with "little leagues for baseball, Booster Basketball teams, Pop Warner football programs, and soccer teams, and push them to start competition at ever-earlier ages."

"If left to their own devices, most youngsters take up a sport just to be with their friends and to have fun," the authors write. "They don't start out putting the emphasis on winning that their parents and coaches do. Their greatest achievement, in fact, is simply to belong, to be a member of a team or a club. Tpe second biggest thing in their lives is to make a contribution — to play, not to sit on the bench. Belonging and contributing are normal needs, which can be fulfilled by all of us. But they are being subverted at the childhood level by a gilt-edged emphasis on winning and competition."

Such subversion results in emotional child abuse. "Parents would never think of binding a child's legs so they wouldn't grow. Yet they will straitjacket their child's emotional growth without even realizing the damage they are doing."

Parents, the authors write, frustrate their children with unattainable goals, with the "quitters never win" and "you were born to play" garbage. Such thoughts bruise the child's self-confidence.

Gold Country Town Hosts Mineral Show

Springtime is never lovelier than in the Gold Country.

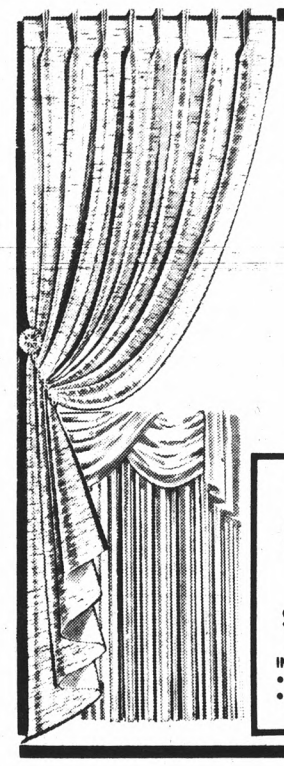

On April 23-24, the Amador County Gem and Mineral Society will host a Gold Dust Days show at the Fairgrounds in Plymouth. Hours are Saturday 9 a.m.-9 p.m. and Sunday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Members try to recapture the feeling of the early days of this prominent gold mining area by dressing in the style of the 49ers and dispensing old time hospitality to all their guests. This has become a very popular event every April.

From Friday evening on through the weekend the campground swells with the modern pioneers and their "covered wagons" — recreational vehicles, trailers and tents, until a small city has spring up across the grounds.

Seventeen dealers and demonstrators will come from all over the state, bringing a huge variety of merchandise: precious opals from Australia and other famous localities; turquoise from most of the major mines; jade from Canada and Alaska, handcrafted jewelry, mineral specimens, gemstone materials and their mountings, books, carvings and many other items.

The demonstrators will be faceting, carving ivory, making colored glass beads, wax casting, working in silver and turquoise and cutting rock.

A Warning About Alcohol

People who drink alcohol while taking prescription medications may suffer distressing or even dangerous side effects. That's the warning from the California Medical Association.

According to CMA, many different kinds of medications prescribed for a variety of disorders should not be mixed with alcohol. Caution is necessary because the amount of alcohol that will produce side effects varies with each person, with the medication and with the dosage.

There are almost limitless instances in which alcohol can produce problems when used with otherwise safe medications. Some examples:

- Alcohol plus aspirin may produce internal bleeding.
- Alcohol may induce fainting in a person using some heart or high blood pressure medications.
- Alcohol may further weaken the heart of a person who has been prescribed strong diuretics and digitalis for a failing heart.
- Alcohol may cause acute discomfort in persons taking certain antibiotics, an antimalarial drug or antiparasitic medication.
- Alcohol causes an anticonvulsant medication to be less effective.
- Alcohol "doubles" the effect of tranquilizers, sleeping pills, antidepressants and other mood-altering drugs. A person may become so drowsy and confused that judgment is impaired, the dosage may be repeated several times, and the result may be fatal overdose.

For your own safety and comfort, the California Medical Association suggests that you ask your doctor whether it is safe for you to drink alcohol while using newly prescribed medication.

Broadmoor Church Plans Conference

Plans for Broadmoor Presbyterian Church's annual family conference at Mt. Hermon Christian Conference Grounds in the Santa Cruz Mountains were announced recently by the chairman, Ken Gillespie. The conference is open to the general public.

The event, scheduled for the weekend of Sept. 23 to 25, will focus on the theme of "Hoping and Coping."

Speaker for the conference will be the Rev. Walter Johnson, staff chaplain for the past 12 years at Peninsula Hospital and an experienced conference leader and seminar speaker.

CHECKING OUT

Councilman Victor Kyriakis checks out the first book in the new Rental Collection in the Westlake Branch from librarian Adrienne Savetnick while Friends of Daly City Library President Verna Teglia looks on. The collection, sponsored by FDCL, was inaugurated locally as a feature of national Library Week. The collection will provide additional copies of high-demand titles that will be more readily available, with a niminal rental fee charge (minimum rental of 35 cents for a three-day loan, plus 10 cents each additional day). No fee will be charged for Sundays or holidays.

Rules for Reserving Campsites

State park campsite reservations will be available this summer only 30 days in advance rather than the usual 90 days. The change is necessary because the effects of this year's drought make it impossible to ensure, with any reasonable degree of accuracy, that normal campsite services will be available more than 30 days in the future.

Reservations may be made at any of the more than 150 Ticketron outlets in California. To learn the address of the nearest Ticketron outlet, phone (415) 788-2828. in San Francisco.

Persons unable to reach a Ticketron terminal in person may mail a reservation request and total fees to Ticketron, P.O. Box 26430, San Francisco 94126. Reservations will be mailed, but no earlier than 30 days in advance.

Temple Program Is Announced

Sabbath services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, on April 22 at 8:30 p.m. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Eli Lehav, Guest Cantor, who will chant the liturgy.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the observance of the 29th anniversary of Israel's independence, "Yom HaAtzmaut." Rabbi Book's sermon will honor this special event.

At the conclusion of services, a social hour will follow, hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood.

Hebrew school classes commence at 9:30 a.m. on Shabbat morning of April 23.

At 10:45 a.m., the pupils adjourn to the temple sanctuary where Religious School students participate in the service.

Members will participate in the Israel Independence Day celebration and picnic. Many of the congregants and religious school students have registered for the "Walk for Israel" starting at 9:30 a.m. from Larsen Park to 1 p.m. at Stern Grove, San Francisco, on April 24.

There will be continuous entertainment, sports, artisans, food and games from noon to 4 p.m. at Stern Grove.

The Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Israel will hold its regular monthly meeting on April 25 at 8 p.m. at the temple.

Charities to Benefit from Dinner-dance

Mary Lou Sproul, Regent of Court Our Lady of the Sunset No. 2070, Catholic Daughters of America, takes pleasure in announcing "Aloha Night" at the court's annual fund-raising dinner dance to be held on April 30, at St. Gabriel's Bedford Hall, 41st Avenue and Ulloa Street in San Francisco.

No-host cocktails begin at 6:30 p.m., with dinner served from 7 to 9 p.m. Roy Leano's band is featured for dancing.

It's Library Week

Louanne Heath

We are midway through Library Week, but there is still time to take this special time to visit one of the local branch libraries and get acquainted with the services and books offered local residents.

This week is the annual membership drive week, sponsored by the Executive Board of the Friends of the Daly City Library.

Members of the library group will be stationed in the branches during Library Week to explain how this group helps to improve the services and the variety of materials available through the library system.

IT WILL BE business as usual today in the Our Lady of Mercy Parish school building, where the members of the Westlake Senior Citizens will be getting together for the first time since before Easter.

BINGO AND LASAGNE will highlight this afternoon's gathering of the members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild.

The annual Bingo-Lasagne luncheon is scheduled to begin at 11:30 a.m. in the Westlake Community Center. Tickets are being sold by members of the guild for $3.50.

Mrs. Mary Short is the luncheon chairman.

ONCE AGAIN the time has arrived for the guild to begin screening applicants for the Education Assistance Fund for Health Careers.

Scholarships are available to hospital employees and their families, guild members and their families, volunteers and the families of medical-dental staff members who are planning to pursue a career in the health field. Hospital employes who wish to upgrade their knowledge or skills in order to qualify for another position in the hospital are eligible, too.

Scholarship fund applicants may get the necessary papers from Mrs. Mary McCoy, director of volunteers, from Mrs. Janice Batcheldereth chairman of the Guild Fund or through the department of education and Community Relations at the hospital.

In order that the selection committee may have time to screen the documents filed by applicants, it will be necessary for the papers to be on file by June 1.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Balboa High School Alumni Association will be held tomorrow in the Little Theater of Balboa High School at 7:15 p.m.

New members of the Board of Directors will be elected, the board will receive the financial report for the year and the programs of the past year will be discussed and evaluated.

Members, guests and visitors are welcome.

APRIL 30, has been selected as the date for the Daly City Civic Ballet spring luncheon.

Tickets for the luncheon, to be held in the Franciscan Country Club, are available for $3.50 per person.

Mrs. Pat Rubino reports that the theme for the show will be Flowers 'n' Fashions. The program will include a performance by the Civic Ballet under the direction of Diane Roberts.

Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Vincent Rigoni or from the Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd.

LOUIS FILARSKI was installed for an additional turn as president of the Daly City Garden club, during a candlelight ceremony held in Bianchini's this past week.

Al Teglia was the master of ceremonies for the evening, Mrs. Beda Beach, district director of the Bay-Ocean District Garden Clubs, was the installing officer and Mrs. Evelyn Wells was the guest Speaker.

Following the installation of Filarski, Conrad Santiago, vice president; Mrs. Carol Alba, second vice president; Mrs. Alene Filarski, recording secretary, Maureen Weir, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Grace Cannova, treasurer, Mrs. Wells spoke and demonstrated flower arranging. Mrs. Wells is a Flower show judge and a landscape critic.

START A PENNY collection now, so you'll be able to join in the fun at the annual Spring Festival at the Parish Hall of Our Lady of Mercy Church on May 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Dinner Reservations are available from Mrs. Julian Fernando or Richard Galliani. Investment tickets are being sold by Mrs. Richard Mudge, Mrs. John Willden and George Iwai.

Pacifica Trying to Hold the Line

Pacifica's city government is trying to ease the pain of the whopping 37.5 per cent average increase in residential assessed valuation by holding the line on its municipal taxes.

Following a directive issued by the City Council last Dec. 15, City Manager Donald Weidner has submitted a preliminary budget to the council proposing expenditures of $6,406,803 — only $52,311 over that budgeted for the current year.

The general fund tax rate of $1.889 per $100 of assessed valuation proposed in the 1977-78 budget is down 18 cents from the current year's rate.

But Weidner is unhappy about the public services that will continue to suffer through lack of funding.

"Our programs and services are at a much lower level of productivity and effectiveness to the public. The proposed budget for 1977-78 is a survival budget. It keeps the semblance of public services together, and we are able to deliver them on a fairly consistent, but extremely minimal basis," Weidner said.

He is particularly concerned about the "hit and miss maintenance" of city parks. "They will generally continue to deteriorate and suffer from lack of maintenance," he added.

Other public services that will continue to be curtailed are street and sidewalk maintenance, storm drainage, tree trimming, street sweeping and numbers of policemen and firemen.

"This city attempts to police the city with only one sworn officer for each 1,000 people. The national standard is two per 1,000 people, and most cities have at least 1 and one-half per 1,000 people. As for fire, we often send two fire fighters out on an initial response. The fire chief and I believe that a minimum of three should be sent," Weidner said.

He also mentioned that street sweeping has been cut in half, from once a week to twice a month.

"The public is beginning to show signs of recognizing the depletion of services and we are getting more complaints," Weidner said.

Personnel cutbacks in the proposed budget continue to be severe.

The general fund provides for 26 fewer positions than in the 1975-76 budget — less employes than in 1970-71.

"We have only one 'pure' engineer on the city payroll, only one planning administrator and two planning assistants. That's skimpy for a city of 40,000," Weidner explained.

"In the past," the manager continued, "the city has spent more than it could afford. Today we're solvent and in a much better financial position, although services have suffered."

Two bright notes in the proposed budget are that its contingency fund has been increased from $100,000 to $200,000 for unanticipated expenses, and its restricted fiscal reserve will be built up to over $750,000.

Colma's Awaiting Meeting

Colma Police Chief James Dorris says he believes "everything is negotiable" when Colma and Broadmoor officials meet to talk about police service for Broadmoor.

So far, such a meeting has not been scheduled, Dorris said Wednesday night. City officials have agreed, however, to discuss the matter with Broadmoor's Police Commission and its Citizens Advisory Committee, he added.

Dorris said the first meeting between the two jurisdictions would be closed, with a less thatmajority attendance by representatives from both sides.

Broadmoor's Police Commission voted last week to begin negotiations with Colma for a police services contract.

The commission currently is negotiating with Daly City for a long-term contract when the current temporary administrative contract ends June 30. Daly City began providing services for Broadmoor when the unincorporated area's police department lost its liability insurance, Jan. 10.

Besides negotiating with Daly City and Colma, the Police Commission also is considering a $24,500 liability insurance offer, so it can resume independent operation.

Commissioner Wayne Johnson has said that a contract with Colma would be preferable to one with Daly City. A number of Broadmoor residents have voiced similar opinions.

Broadmoor officials negotiated with Colma in December for a temporary contract, but talks ended because Broadmoor needed a quick answer.

"This time we'll have more time," said Dorris.

He noted that there would be advantages and disadvantages in combining Broadmoor and Colma police services. He currently works with an eight-person department, while Broadmoor has seven employes.

"It's an advantage to have more police, even with a larger area to cover," said Dorris. "But it makes more work for an administrative staff."

Child Abuse Confab

Child abuse and neglect in San Mateo County, as seen by professionals, will be discussed at a conference beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 23, at the College of San Mateo Theater.

Open to the public, the conference carries a fee of $5.

Entitled "Violence Against Children in San Mateo County," the conference will examine the services that presently exist and make recommendations for effective and better-coordinated programs.

Dr. Harvey Kaplan, chief of pediatrics at Chope Community Hospital; Tracy Madden, director of the Palo Alto Parental Stress Hotline; and Judge Frank Rose of the Juvenile Court will be featured speakers.

Small group problem-solving sessions will work through the day to produce recommendations for change, which will be communicated to leaders present and to the Board of Supervisors.

During the morning session, professionals who work with families will focus on child abuse and neglect as seen in their experience.

In the afternoon, there will be an administrative leadership reaction panel.

TRY STUDYING

Becky was doing poorly in math. "I'd do anything to pass the course," she told the professor. "Anything at all?' "Yes, anything at all." "What are you doing Friday night?" "Nothing." "Well, then, why don't you try a little studying."

Colma Store Plan Undecided

Colma's City Council held a lengthy public hearing Wednesday on a controversial rezoning request to allow construction of a K-Mart store on El Camino Real, but made no decision.

After a hearing that lasted more than three hours, Mayor Eugene Danelux said consideration of the request would be continued at a special meeting April 27.

The rezoning request, which has been an issue in Colma since it first surfaced in November, would require amending the city's general plan and zoning ordinance.

The proposed K-Mart would be located on a 10-acre site adjacent to Pacific Nurseries near Serramonte Boulevard and would include a 600-car parking lot.

Colma residents had little to say at Wednesday's public hearing, although atleast 50 people showed up.

Rather, they listened as Michigan developer S.N. Maisel and his staff made a lengthy presentation on the project.

Besides the presentation, much of the hearing was taken up by San Francisco attorney James Paul Green.

Green, who has refused to name his clients, has been the most vocal opponent of the rezoning.

Green's presence in the matter Wednesday was almost as much of an issue as the rezoning itself.

Maisel, after listening to Green speak against the developer's presentation, said, "This is the most unfair thing a developer has ever been put to.

"I'm entitled to know who you represent," he said to Green. "You may represent a vested interest which wants to take this revenue away from Colma."

A number of Colma residents clapped. One stood up and said, "I would not let a man take up my time and not say who he's representing. I'm a Colma resident and Mr. Green is not representing me."

However, almost as many cheered when resident Don Smith said, "The questions he's asking are on behalf of the people of this town."

Councilman Fred Garbini commented that he would put more faith in Green's comments, if Garbini knew for whom Green was speaking.

In his remarks, Green charged the City Council would be "voting for absentee developers, owners and to some extent, absentee shoppers and workers."

He took exception to a design sketch shown by the developer's staff, in which a staff member said an Early California theme was used for the building.

"It's clear that it's nothing but a concrete box to merchandise cheap merchandise," he charged. The only boxes in Colma are reserved for the city's permanent residents — in the cemetaries."

Society Seeks Donations

The annual spring drive for donations to the St. Vincent de Paul Society begins Friday and continues to April 30. The Society's thrift stores support community self-help programs

Free home pickup is available by calling a Society thrift store.

Donations of usable furniture, clothing, appliances, and household items are sought.

Termite Alert

This spring, homeowners should be on the alert for signs of termite infestation in addition to swarming such as:

- Piles of tiny discarded wings on the floor beneath doors or windows. (These are shed when the reproductives end their swarm and begin searching for a suitable site for starting a new colony.)
- Blistered or darkened areas on hardwood floors, window sills or frames, beams or joints.
- Small earthen shelter tubes on the surface of foundation walls.

Veterans with disability rated 10 per cent or more who are found to require rehabilitation can receive up to four years of training. Eligibility for training is usually nine years after discharge and under certain conditions this may be extended four years.

A new law provides seriously disabled veterans training beyond these termination dates when this is found to be necessary, it was noted.

Frank Spadarella, restaurant owner and prize-winning photographer, will discuss the history of the art of photography for The Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests at The Friends' April 28 book review, to be held at the Westlake Library at 10 a.m. in the community room. The review is presented as a community service.

Spadarella, who manages three restaurants on the peninsula and who has studied modern photography in New York City and photography with Brett Weston, Paul Copanigro and Oliver Goglioni, as well as in workshops with Ansel Adams, will relate the history of the art from the first plate to modern times.

The Daly City Recreation Department awarded Spadarella first prize for print of the year, and he took first place in the color prints and slides category at the San Mateo County Fair in 1975. Many citizens viewed the prints he had on display at the City Hall last year.

Director Mrs. Robert Enright will hostess the coffee hour which will precede the review.

Reservations for a no-host luncheon honoring Spadarella will be accepted by Mrs. Joseph Canada, book review chairman at the review. The luncheon will be held following the program at Toto's Restaurant, Daly City.

Telephone Directory Circulated

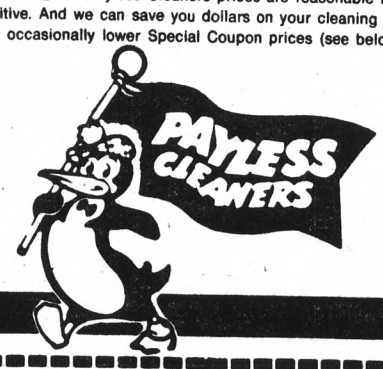

Some 247,000 businesses and residences in San Mateo County found a paramedic ambulance on their doorstep during the week of March 28-April 1. The ambulance arrived on the cover of the new telephone directory, moving aside the familiar Bicentennial flag used state wide on covers during 1975-76.

Pacific Telephone District Manager Virginia Mueller reported that the paramedic ambulance was selected for the cover as a public service to help inform county residents of the new emergency medical services (EMS) program.

Serramonte Students Visit KGO-TV Studio

The Regent

By MYLENE SCHWIMMER

Through the efforts of Serramonte administrator Al Campbell and drama teacher Diane Streeter, 20 music and drama students recently went to the KGO-TV studio in San Francisco to participate in the audience of "Young Sounds," a musical program for youths, to be aired on April 20.

In appreciation for Serramonte's participation in the program, KGO has offered tours of the TV studio and career speakers for drama, music and other interested students. Anyone interested in taking advantage of KGO's generous offer should see Ms. Streeter and don't forget to watch the show on the 20th. You may see some students you know.

MANY STUDENTS at Serramonte participate in the Bay Area's Junior Achievement program. This organization is designed to educate high school students about the business world. Students form their own small companies where they manufacture and sell a product. One company to which many Serramonte students belong is Life Lite. This company manufactures nature window boxes.

Recently Serramonte Life Lite members Roger Campos, Lisa Moeller, Julie Smith and Howie Ferrell sold their product at the Southern Pacific Junior Achievement Trade Fair in San Francisco. These students, along with others from their company, sold $355 worth of products, the second highest among sold at the fair. Awards were given for the best sales pitch and Serramonte's Roger Campos was one of the winners. Keep up the good work!

AT THE DALY CITY/Colma Exchange Club's March luncheon, Johnny Parker was honored as Serramonte's outstanding student of the month. Johnny is senior class vice president and is active in school affairs. Congratulations, Johnny!

Serramonte has a young and energetic gymnastics team this season which is coached by Sheila Brush. The team is doing very well. Varsity is undefeated and junior varsity has two wins.

Competitors ranked as "novices" who are in their first year of competition are Audrey Johnson, Frances Lee, and Carol Tamblin. Junior varsity members who must have competed at least one year are Andra Dolgin, Donna Grimes, Kim Mohr and Robin Raeta.

Varsity competitors of the intermediate level are Chandra Collins, Rowena Holeman, Marnitha Haynes, Diana Law, Katie Lorber, Lisa Stables and Lori Stables. The gymnastics home meets are open to the public with a small admission charge.

COMING MEETS are South City at Serramonte, April 21; Serramonte at El Camino, May 4; Westmoor at Serramonte, May 11. The NPL gymnastic finals will be held at Jefferson High School on May 21 beginning at 9 a.m. All the schools will be competing at this meet and Serramonte's team invites everyone to come and cheer them on to victory.

"SEND A BUNNY to your honey" was the theme of the chocolate Easter bunny sale recently sponsored by the Sophomore class. After plans were made by class President Daria Wiggins, Vice President Kim Daly, Secretary Imogene Mamoe, Treasurer Diana Law and Advisor Mr. Roland Rinne, the sophomores took orders for bunnies costing 50 cents and then delivered them to the people for whom orders had been placed. This bunny sale was not only a good fund raiser but promoted spirit for the recent holiday season.

DON'T FORGET: "West Side Story" will be performed at Serramonte on May 6, 7, 13 and 14. The play promises superb acting, an enlarged stage and advanced choreography, including modern ballet by Mrs. Brush.

Tickets are going fast. Prices are $2.50 and $2.75 for reserved seats in advance and $2.75 and $3 at the door. Buy a ticket from a Serramonte drama or C.S.F. student or call 992-9555 for reservations.

ON APRIL 26 the Serramonte Boosters' Club will hold a spaghetti dinner. There will be a sports personality present as a guest speaker. All proceeds from this dinner will go toward athletics. So please your stomach and the athletes at Serramonte by attending on April 26.

THE CORRECT date for Senior Grad Night in Disneyland is June 10. Sorry, it was previously reported incorrectly.

The Presidio's 'Ecology Trail'

A forest of some 80,000 trees on the headlands of the Golden Gate is open daily for the pleasure of Bay Area residents.

The beauty of nature is available for the enjoyment of the casual weekend walker and organized groups alike at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The Community Relations branch of the Presidio Public Affairs Office now offers guided tours along its "Ecology Trail" that are designed to provide the walker with a deeper appreciation of nature and the ecosystem maintained at the Presidio by the U.S. Army.

The entire trail, two miles long, is a loop beginning and ending at the Presidio Army Museum. Each participant on the walk is given a brochure that describes key plants, trees and wildlife in the vicinity of the trail. A map in the brochure also locates the 28 various types of trees found on the trail and notes historic points-of-interest on or near the trail.

Groups desiring to trek the "Ecology Trail" are asked to call 561-2006 or 561-3870 for reservations. Once the reservation is confirmed, a special tour guide will be available.

Individuals wishing to walk the trail on their own can obtain the brochures at the museum and simply follow the markers.

FIRST CLOCKS

The first clocks were made by blacksmiths around 1300. They were enormous iron contraptions driven by bulky weights, usually too big to fit into anything smaller than a church steeple. A gigantic indoor clock built in 1360 for the King of France (and still running in 1852) was driven by a 500-pound rock.

Le Pacini

Eddie DeBartolo, Jr.., new president of the 49ers, may have made a grave public relations mistake when he came on so strong at his initial public appearance and press conference recently. Admittedly, he was in an awkward position, having to announce the firing of Monte Clark, a very popular and very effective head coach with close local ties. But he used poor judgment when he lashed out to snickering reporters — after having explained his position in firing Clark — with a remark that went something like, "This is no play thing, you know. This is going to cost us some $17 million and more. This is a business, you know."

Well, I've got news for DeBartolo. I have serious doubts as to whether either the press or the public gives a damn about his $17 million investment. They're interested in their investments of years of time, waiting for winners, listening to excuses. So they don't want to hear his bellyaching about his measly $17 million.

If DeBartolo and his daddy, who is, after all, the real driving force behind the deal, insist on treating San Francisco fans and the press like secondary objects to their $17 million, they are going to discover that an Italian family operation in San Francisco is probably a lot different than the kind of family operation that can exists in Cleveland, the DeBartolos' home base. They may, in fact, discover that San Francisco fans would just as soon suck their beer in a bar as at Candlestick, and watch championship teams on TV.

Now, if the DeBartolos win a Super Bowl, THEN maybe they can push pushy Joe Thomas, their wunderkind general manager, onto the press and the public, and talk about their $17 million plus. Until then, the DeBartolo kid had better cool it with his sarcasm.

As a matter of fact, if the DeBartolos are really worth as much as is reputed, the 49ers could very well be a plaything daddy bought for the kid to keep him out of the real serious business in Cleveland.

HOPE THIS doesn't sound like sour grapes, just because the Giants got shut out in the free agent market, but the three teams which were supposed to have improved themselves the most — Atlanta, San Diego and the Angels — are still going to have to struggle for the simple reason that they scored well in everything except pitching.

After Nolan Ryan and Frank Tanana, the Angels have nothing, starting or relieving. Sure, with the additions of Joe Rudi, Don Baylor and Bobby Grich, they'll score more, but they'll have to just to run in place. They won't do a lot of advancing.

In our own Western Division, San Diego will also score more, with Gene Tenace and George Hendrick in the lineup, and they'll have stout relieving with Rollie Fingers added to Butch Metzger. But who's going to start for them after Randy Jones pitches. In fact, who at all can start for them if Jones isn't over his arm trouble?

Sure, Atlanta added power hitters Gary Matthews and Jeff Burroughs to its lineup to go with Willie Montenez, but now explain to me who is going to catch the ball for the Braves, after it is hit off a virtually nonexistent pitching staff? And who is going to hit before and after Montenez, Burroughs and Matthews?

Believe it. The Giants will go as far as their pitching staff will take them, and their pitching staff is capable of taking them into third place. With a few breaks (like Pete Rose breaking his leg, Joe Morgan his arm, and Don Sutton his neck), who knows how much further?

WHILE DOING research on Ty Cobb for another article, I suddenly realized that Cobb, who took 12 American League batting titles in 13 years, including nine in a row, LOST batting titles with averages of .320, .371, .334, .389, .401, .340, .338, .378, 339, .357 and .323. That's an 11-year average of about .355. In other words, Cobb's losing years were enough to get him into the Hall of Fame.

BY THE TIME this is printed, the Warriors may have already been knocked out of the playoffs. And then again, they might be a favorite to take it all. That's the kind of a team they've been this year. Erratic, or so it seems.

But not actually so, at least compared to the rest of the NBA. Yes, they've been a disappointment to many, but if one tries to be detached from the what-might-have-beens and looks at the Warrior picture objectively, he finds a team that won 46 NBA games, which is only two fewer than the Warriors took in regular season two years ago when they were basketball champions of the entire world. And, with the infusion of ABA players and teams this season, the NBA is much tougher than it was two years ago, or last year.

Speaking of last year, true, the Warriors were the winningest team in basketball, as they copped 13 more victories than did this year's team. All of which makes the Warriors, in contrast, seem weak this year.

Weak, the Warriors are not. In fact, they seem to have a brighter future now than they had last year, especially if Jamaal Wilkes doesn't retire or press a trade to Los Angeles. We now know that Rick Barry will return; Robert Parish, unknown a year ago, is now a certified future super star and may be — at least in spots until Clifford Ray wears out — that strong forward for which they've been searching. Sonny Parker has proven himself as a quick forward and may even be their answer for a big guard and may be pushing a big Phil Smith trade.

They have managed to survive without injured Derrek Dickey and presumably will have him back next year as well as the other hurt forward Dwight Davis; Larry McNeill is proving more and more to have been a sleeper pick-up, precipitated by the injuries to Dickey and Davis; and the Warriors have a bushel of top draft picks out of a bumper crop.

MC NEILL HAS been very effective, especially down the stretch, in his spot appearances, as reflected in his 48 minutes stats. For the equivalent of every full game he's played as a Warrior, he's averaged 30.2 points (field goal percentage of 47.5, free throw average of 90.3), 17.1 rebounds and 2.1 steals.

Possibly the surprise statistic of the Warrior season belongs to Charles Dudley, who, despite limited playing time, finished a strong second on the squad to Barry in assists. As a matter of fact, he easily beat Barry for every 48 minutes the two played. Under that system, Barry averaged 7.8 assists a game, Grasshopper 9.9!

And if you want to win a bar bet, ask who on the Warriors finished second to Barry on the free throw line. It was rookie Marshall Rogers, with a 93.3 to Barry's 91.6. Rogers missed only one in 15 tries.

Best long-shot bet for finalists in the NBA title chase: Warriors and Washington.

LOCAL NOTE: Don't forget the marathon basketball game at Terra Nova High School this Friday and Saturday, being played to benefit Jeanine Battaion, the TN student so gravely injured in an auto accident last month.

Game time will run from 5 p.m. to 5 p.m. Admission charge is $1, but it is hoped that everyone attending donates more.

Volunteers for mouth-to-mouth resuscitation may also be needed for the three basketball coaches who will do solo supervision of the game, in shifts. Bud Bresnahan, Gary Johnson and Jim Soden aren't such bad looking guys, and any diseases contracted because of them will be tax deductible.

Regent Spikes Triumph

Serramonte High's track team remained unbeaten in North Peninsula League competition with a 74½ to 48½ win over host South San Francisco Thursday.

Kern Herbert won the sprints for Serramonte, and Lorens Lebherz won the high jump and long jump. A quarter mile duel was expected between SSF's Asa Hilliard and Serramonte's Herbert, but Hilliard didn't run the race and consequently neither did Herbert. Serramonte's Darryl Jones won in 51.0.

In another meet Half Moon Bay dropped visiting Terra Nova 85-47. HMB set school records in both relays (45.5, 3:37.3). HMB's Nick Moreno ran his best high hurdles race of the year, clocking 15.6. TN's Randy Peterson won three events (and took the 440 in a rapid 51.4).

Westmoor Girls in HMB Loss

Half Moon Bay High's girls' softball team "stole" a game Friday in North Peninsula League play by registering 11 base thefts to defeat visiting Westmoor 10-7.

The Cougars are averaging over 10 swipes per game, led by junior shortstop Lynnie Sanchez (10 for the season).

Half Moon Bay got balanced hitting with four players going 2-for-four and collecting two RBI's each: Lynette Sherwin, Debbie Vasquez, Mildred Vega and Sanchez. Karen Villar clubbed a triple for Westmoor.

Smith Paces Ram Nine

John Smith drove in three runs Wednesday to spark Westmoor High's baseball team to a 6-2 North Peninsula League win over visiting Serramonte.

Two RBI's came on a third-inning homer with one on. Greg Eagleton followed with a triple, and scored on Tom Bonomi's sacrifice fly, upping Westmoor's lead to 5-1.

Ram pitcher Mike McLennan went six innings for the Rams for the win. Serramonte was held to five hits, and both Regent runs were unearned.

SSF's Dunn: Ace in Relief

Jim Dunn, the Mike Marshall of the North Peninsula League, came on to salvage another win for South San Francisco High's baseball team as the Warriors beat Westmoor 9-7 Friday at Orange Park.

Dunn, who had recorded three consecutive saves prior to Friday's game, relieved starter Matt Allio in the fifth and was credited with the win. The victory moved South City into a second place tie with Terra Nova, two and one half games behind league leading El Camino (a 10-1 winner over Jefferson).

Elsewhere in the NPL, Terra Nova scored three runs in the first inning to top Serramonte 4-1 and Half Moon Bay surprised Oceana 3-0.

Westmoor outhit South City 10-6 but committed eight errors to give the game away. SSF broke open a 7-7 tie in the fifth on a run-scoring double by Glen Kramer and an RBI single by Tiger Delarcruz.

Dunn's outstanding relief performance ruined a stellar day at the plate for Westmoor's John Smith, who had four hits.

Jefferson halted Rich Bordi's shutout string at 33 innings, but El Camino romped anyway. Jeff stopped the streak in the first inning on a double by Nolan Smith, followed by a Ray Morton single.

Bordi wasn't discouraged, however, as he struck out 12 and allowed only two hits after the first inning. El Camino wrapped the win up early, scoring all 10 of its runs in the first four innings.

Jean Donalaya paced Camino's attack with two hits and three RBI's, while Ed Finnegan and Danny O'Regan added a pair of hits and an RBI each.

Pitcher Alan Berger sparked Half Moon Bay's upset by scattering eight hits and helping his own cause in the fourth with a two-run homer. HMB collected only three hits, but played strong defense.

Terra Nova stunned Serramonte with four hits and took advantage of one Regent error to score three times in the first inning. The Regents settled down after that, but could manage no more than a single run in the fourth off of TN's Mike Diaz.

Steve McDonald paced the Tigers with three hits and an RBI. Gordon Shirley came in in the seventh and picked up the save for Terra Nova.

Swim Crucial For Rams, TN

Westmoor and Terra Nova High school swimmers couldn't be blamed for not concentrating fully on their races Friday.

The two undefeated North Peninsula League powers scored easy wins; Terra Nova beat Oceana 125-29 and Westmoor swamped Jefferson 112-32. South City topped El Camino 85-73.

The Rams and Tigers meet next Friday in Pacifica to decide the NPL championship. And both teams go in confident with 4-0 records.

"I feel confident," said Westmoor Coach Jim Ahern. "We can beat them if everything goes right. I'd feel more comfortable swimming at home, but that shouldn't bother us mentally."

"If we hold together, I think we can win," said TN mentor Marty Iwanaga. "It's hard to say. Westmoor has the depth and I think we can win most of the events.

"We beat South City by 40 points, winning nine of 11 events, and Westmoor beat South City by 40 points, losing nine of 11 events. So it could go either way."

Anthony McCarley, Jay Bontrager and Pete Kern were all double winners for Terra Nova, and the trio was on the winning free relay team.

Westmoor had a very easy day, moving people all around. Jim Stockman and Bill Beedle copped two events each.

South City won eight of 11 events to hold off Camino. Mark Flowers was the Warriors' only double winner, taking the 500 and 100 frees.

GGC Title Thrust

CSM Showdown

College of San Mateo's baseball team wasn't allowed to rest on its laurels this weekend.

Coach John Noce thought the laurels looked a little wilted.

The Bulldogs are hitting .282 as a team, have a team ERA of 2.85 and are leading the Golden Gate Conference with a 13-3 mark (23-5 overall). But Noce wasn't satisfied.

The Bulldogs committed 13 errors in two games last week — including five in Saturday's 12-10 comeback win over visiting Laney. There were some fundamental mistakes as well, so although CSM won both errorfests, Noce had the team show up Sunday morning at 10 for "a little re-entrenching."

They worked on catching pop flies and worked on bunt defense. They worked well. "But anybody can do it at 10 in the morning," Noce growled. "We're gonna have to do it when we get to the nitty-gritty, and the nitty-gritty is this week."

Tuesday at 3 the Bulldogs host second-place San Jose, which is only a game out. The contest is doubly important because in case of a tie in the final standings, the two clubs' performance against each other would be used to determine playoff position.

CSM trailed 10-7 going into the bottom of the eighth Saturday. Vance Verderame and John Rico led off with singles. They were moved along by a sacrifice bunt. Rob Bapsta lined a three-run double to center field, putting CSM ahead to stay, 11-10. Ron Batter drove in the final run on an infield out.

Batter now has 26 RBI's in conference play and 33 on the year; he's just one shy of the school record set by Tim Buckley in 1972. Batter drove in three Saturday (it might have been seven, had it not been for some good Laney defense).

Baptista doubled twice in the game (his 10 conference doubles are a school record) and drove in four runs. John O'Leary drove home two.

"It's heartening that they had the competitiveness to come from behind and get the key hits," said Noce. "But we can't play that poorly against top-caliber clubs." Laney is not a GGC baseball power.

Barry Silver came in in relief in the sixth and picked up the win. He's now 6-1 in conference play and 8-1 on the year.

South City lost just 20 games to the Regents. Todd Minner looked good in second singles, winning 6-1, 6-0.

Terra Nova did even better, losing just 10 games to a revamped Oceana team. The first doubles team of Darryl McClellan and Don Featherstone improved its season mark to 15-1 with a 6-0, 6-2 triumph.

El Camino won three three-set matches in its win over the Rams. Kevin Greggans beat Westmoor's Fred Lippi in first singles on two identical 5-3 tie-breakers.

CSM Golfers Top Cabrillo

SANTA CRUZ — College of San Mateo's golf team, just one half game out of first place in the Golden Gate Conference, stayed in tune for conference play with a 43-11 practice match victory over Cabrillo Monday at Pasatiempo Golf Course.

None of the Bulldogs tore up the course, but each managed to get by opponents for fairly easy match play victories. Dave Biehl and Bill Murray each shut out their men 6-0 and combined for a best ball victory of the same margin.

Van Batchelder and Murray wound up with co-medalist honors at 76.

San Mateo was scheduled to face Diablo Valley College in a GGC match today at Peninsula Golf and Country Club.

GIRL SCOUTING

DAY CAMP registration the home of Mrs. Shirley opened April 19 for Daly Figone, 327 Higate, Daly City Area Girl Scouts, at city.

Camp is scheduled for Monday to Friday, August 8 through 12 at Junipero Serra Park in San Bruno with an overnight on August 11. Registration fee is $8 for Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Aides-in-Training who have graduated from the seventh grade by June of this year.

The fee covers milk, most food, insurance, program supplies and administration costs. Leaders (or troop committee members) will register girls by taking the troop forms and a check made out to Daly City Day Camp in person to Mrs. Figone.

REGISTRATION by mail will continue to be accepted. Parents should return the registration form to the troop leader. One adult who will attend training and camp is required to register with every six girls.

Girls who exceed the quota of camp or who do not have an adult to register with are urged to send in their forms as the Daly City Girl Scout Association has always been able to recruit sufficient adult coverage for the waiting list.

Campship funds are available to girls who require them with forms available from troop leaders.

Losing Weight with Behavior Modification

Weight loss without dieting might sound like a come-on for some new fad or "pounds off" scheme. But it's really the slogan for a weight-conscious technique called "behavior modification."

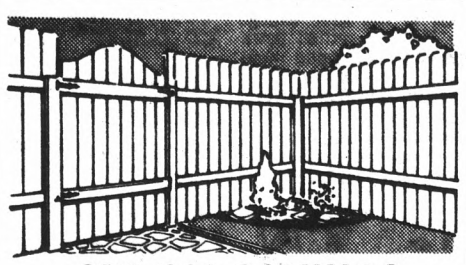

San Jose State University nutritionist Cherie Winslow and 45 persons taking a 13-week behavior-modification course conducted by the SJSU Student Health Service are learning more about the technique.

During the weekly 45-minute sessins, particpains learn to recognize their eating habits and then make necessary changes. They maintain a "food diary" in which they record what they eat, when and where they eat and how they feel while they are eating.

Self-awareness is the key to changing your eating habits which may contribute to weight problems. That's why Winslow urges her students to make mealtime "something special."

"Treat yourself like company," she says. Take the same time preparing a meal and setting the table that you would take if you were having dinner guests, advises Winslow.

Handicap Camping Planned

For the 19th year, handicapped children and young adults of San Mateo County will have the opportunity to enjoy real camping experiences during the month of August.

Those living in the Northern county will attend Aug. 15-26. Children seven years old and over and young adults with any or multiple handicaps are eligible to take part in these activities.

Arrangements have been made with the cooperation of the San Mateo Parks and Recreational Department, the Volunteer Bureau, and San Mateo Union High School Community Service.

The camp will offer supervised hikes, swimming, a physical fitness program, singing, crafts, nature study and cookouts. The camp operates 5 days a week from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There is a registration fee of $20.

Individuals and organizations are urged to contribute toward camperships which make available these worthwhile activities to many handicapped children and young adults who otherwise cannot attend.

June 1 is the deadline for registration for the two week sessions sponsored by the Peninsula Association for Retarded Children and Adults. In cooperation with other organizations.

Transportation is furnished from some pickup points. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Philip Sonenstein. Chairman for the Day Camp for the Handicapped, 697-4778.

Volunteers 15 years and up can contact the Volunteer Bureau at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame Telephone 342-0801.

NEED THE STRENGTH

The plump young lady told all her friends that she was on a crash diet, and often complained of the hardships she was undergoing in fighting the temptations to gorge herself. One day, a group of her friends discovered her in a restaurant eating a huge meal. "We thought you were dieting?" "I am, this will give me the strength to contnue."

Women's Lung Cancer Triples

Lung cancer rates among women residents of five San Francisco Bay area countries — including San Mateo County — have tripled during the past 10 years, according to recently compiled State Department of Health statistics.

Although admittedly a regional study, the results are of extreme concern to State Health Director Jerome A. Lackner, M.D., Previous health statistics derived from the five counties — Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo — have proved accurate reflections of statewide conditions.

Adding to that concern is the fact that lung cancer proves fatal to 90 per cent of its victims.

The rate of lung cancer among all women residents escalated from 10.1 cases per 100,000 in 1964 to 20.3 in 1970 and finally to 29.9 cases per 100,000 in 1975.

The rise is even more dramatic among white women. The lung cancer rate increased from 9.8 per 100,000 in 1964 to 30.3 per 100,000 in 1975. For black women the rates doubled from 11.3 cases per 100,000 in 1964 to 22.5 per 100,000 in 1975.

"We're beginning to see an epidemic of lung cancer among women," says Dr. Donald Austin, chief of the State Health Department's Resource for Cancer Epidemiology and the California Tumor Registry.

Austin believes that at least part — if not all — of the rise may be due to the growing population of female smokers.

"Traditionally lung cancer rates among women are very low but now entering a period where I suspect the rates will continue to double every 10 years for the next couple of decades."

He says because there is a 20 year lag between an increase in the number of smokers and an increase in lung cancer the "epidemic" may reflect the recruitment of female smokers during World War II.

Available statistics indicate per capita cigarette consumption by women was approximately 350 in 1935 and more than double that number in 1945.

Lackner, while agreeing that cigarettes probably are the major cause, also believes at least two other factors may be contributors. He cited the ever growing number of women employed in industries where some are exposed to carcinogens, and to the increased smog exposure all San Francisco Bay area residents have suffered during the past 30 years.

From 1930-1960 the rate of lung cancer among men doubled every 10 years in California. However by 1970 the disease appeared to peak and from 1970-75 the incidence of lung cancer was on the average about 70 per 100,000 white men.

Lung cancer is now the fourth leading cause of cancer among women in California while in 1965 it was the seventh leading cause of cancer.

For 1975 there were 552 cases of lung cancer in women reported in the five Bay Area counties. In 1970 only 371 cases were reported.

COFFEE HINTS

Never boil coffee, since boiling brings out the tannic acid in the bean and makes for a bitter as well as a cloudy brew. If coffee is ground in the household, it should be done in small quantities in a clean grinder. Store ground coffee in a tightly closed jar in the refrigerator.

Industry Spokesman Addresses Water Hearing

Many Pool Workers Face Job Loss

By JANET PARKER

Many employes in the swimming pool industry will lose their jobs if bans on filling new swimming pools are enacted in San Mateo County, an industry spokesman told the California Water Co. Thursday.

Marshall Berol — representing the California Swimming Pool Industry, Energy, Codes and Legislative Counsel (SPEC), said it takes no less than 35 individuals performing highly specialized tasks to build a swimming pool.

"Those people are going to be out of work," Berol said. "Their jobs will be gone."

Berol spoke in South San Francisco at the last of three hearings concerning Cal Water Co.'s proposed water rationing plan.

Early next week, the company will submit its final proposal to the Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco for approval. It will be enacted immediately.

Hearings also were held this week in San Mateo and Menlo Park.

Berol, a San Francisco attorney, told Cal Water Co. officials that a proposed prohibition on the "use of water for refilling any existing, or filling any new, swimming pool" in cities served by the water company is unfair.

In addition to 13,000 customers in South San Francisco and Broadmoor — the focus of Thursday's hearings — there are 49,000 more customers in Menlo Park, San Carlos and San Mateo.

The Cal Water proposal asks household customers to consume 25 per cent less water than last year. However, no one will be expected to reduce to less than 500 cubic feet a month, officials said.

Water users caught violating the ban would face a penalty charge of $2 per 100 cubic feet of water in excess of their allocation.

And, company officials said, water restricting devices might be installed at the water meter on the user's system, depending upon the severity of the case, after repeated offenses.

"Hopefully . . . people will realize that people in the industry and people who use pools are doing a lot to conserve water," Berol said.

He said the swimming pool industry has no objection to a ban on refilling existing pools. Refills, he said, usually occur when the owner conducts an "acid-bath" of the pool.

The industry, he added, is already saying that an "acid-bath" is unnecessary for health and safety — only for maintenance.

In Marin County, he said, swimming pool contractors last year agreed to truck water into a new pool from outside the county. However, that procedure is becoming difficult as more and more cities and counties ration water.

Eliminating the refill of pools could constitute a 50 per cent reduction in the use of water connected with swimming pools in San Mateo County, Berol said.

To ban both the refill of old and the filling of new pools would constitute a 100 per cent ban, he said.

And yet, other businesses that depend upon water for survival are being asked to cut only 10 per cent, he pointed out.

Swimming pool companies already are asking owners to cover their pools to reduce evaporation. Some builders, he said, are supplying covers free of charge.

A new pool, he said, must be filled with water to properly set the plaster.

"We don't believe there should be a penalty in connection with the building of a new pool," he said. "That's what we think is fair and reasonable."

One speaker suggested filling pools with salt water. Berol said the technology that would allow filtering systems to accept salt water just hasn't been developed yet.

One speaker, Claire Domico of South San Francisco, said pools are a means of vital therapy for some people.

"They're not just for the rich," she said.

Water company official Ken Roeds said later it is doubtful the proposed ban on pool filling will be lifted.

"Our main concern is to save water," Roeds said. The proposal, he added, is similar to plans being formulated throughout the county.

"We still think it's an equitable situation," he said. "It would be inequitable to allow our water to be used to fill up pools."

A South San Francisco car wash owner, Basel Cavalieri, said he has cut the flow of his recycled water approximately 25 per cent.

However, he stated, his business has increased 25 per cent because many people are washing their cars at the commercial establishment rather than use water at home.

Cavalieri wanted to know how he can be expected to cut water use another 10 per cent when his business is increasing.

Cal Water president Ralph Lindberg told the proprietor he might have to cut his hours of business.

It wouldn't seem correct to have people just switch their use from one location to another, Lindberg said. The same would apply for laundromats.

Lindberg also said that before a water restricting device is installed on anyone's pipes, the company will examine the entire history of that water customer's usage.

One woman said her home is on a hillside and even the recycled water she pours by hand on her lawn trickles down into the gutter — another violation of the proposed rules.

An individual customer, Lindberg said, would get a chance to explain that kind of problem before the water would be restricted or cut-off entirely.

Search on Devil's Slide Off

Rescue teams called off their search Thursday for the missing driver of a van that plunged over Devil's Slide early Wednesday.

The California Highway Patrol and the San Mateo Sheriff's Office searched for nine hours by land, sea and air without finding a trace of the driver. The CHP has identified the man as Scott Ladue, 24, of The Skywood Ranch, 10790 Skyline Blvd.

Two friends were driving in another vehicle in front of Ladue at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday when they heard a loud noise and turned around to see Ladue's 1971 model van soar over the embankment on Cabrillo Highway, according to highway patrolmen. The friends are Robert Jacob of The Skywood Ranch (an unincorporated area of the county) and Johnny Crossland of San Jose, the CHP said.

CHP Officer Kevin Kelly said the roof of the van popped off when it struck the rocks and it was possible that Ladue was swept out to sea.

'Marjoe'

in the college and university riots of 1969, however, Marjoe decided to return to the church — this time as a preacher of politics.

"I bombed flat," he said. "I realized what people wanted was fire and brimstone."

Th word got out in Southern churches where he debuted that he was radical and that he'd lost the spirit.

So, he returned to his old style and accepted a film producer's request to expose the fakery in a movie.

He's still collecting the royalties.

He said he gave the parishioners what they wanted to hear — not what he wanted to tell them.

"I was giving them what they wanted to hear, even though I didn't believe in it, but they were happy."

His first speech back on the circuit was an update of an oldie — "Hell With the Lid Off."

His "lecture" ends with a 15-minute reading of an article he has written for "Oui" magazine. It will appear in August. The reading includes obscenities, and a few elderly types in the audience cringe. The college students love it.

During his talk of just barely an hour, Marjoe:

• Called a current child preacher, Michael Lord, "a copycat."

"He should pay me a commisson," Marjoe said. "He's just like me when I was a kid."

• Took special note of his coming attractions — including a screen production of the play, "When Are You Coming Back Red Rider?" and assorted other movies.

• Gave a 45-second "demonstration" of his early preaching talent, using a young woman in the audience as his believer.

He hasn't done a lecture in 16 months, he said. He's been too busy in Hollywood.

He says it's interesting to note he could go back to religious preaching at any time. He gets calls all the time asking if he's gotten back the spirit or seen the light.

"People want a hero so bad," he said.

And he was off to the sound of polite applause for a dinner date in Sausalito.

Plea

the board earmark a minimum of $650,000 in revenue sharing for county social programs.

He further recommended that $400,000 of those funds be appropriated for "core services" and $250,000 for "special services."

Core services would include information and referral programs, non-specialized employment services, non-health emergency assistance and counseling services.

These would serve as "entry programs" from which the needy would be referred to such special programs as child care, youth, legal, ethnic and senior services.

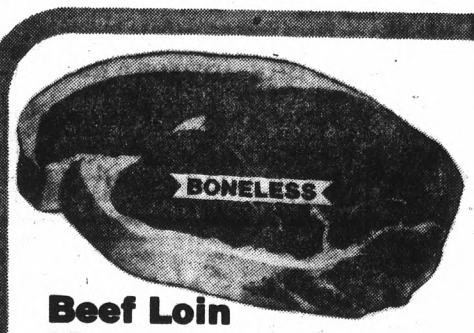

Pickett reported that core service funding should be divided in part as follows: Pacifica, $25,000; North Bayside, $60,000; Redwood City-North Fair Oaks, $135,000; East Palo Alto and Menlo Park, $350,000; and the South Coastside, $30,000.

Supervisors questioned Pickett as to how the group arrived at the specific core service figures.

He replied that it was a rather complex procedure which, due to the late hour, should be discussed at a subsequent meeting.

The board appointed a subcommittee comprised of Chairman John Ward and Vice Chairman Edward Bacciocco to meet with the council and Pickett's staff to discuss the criteria for funding and to report back to the board.

The supervisors decided to set a maximum allocation of revenue-sharing funds for community-based organizations at its April 26 meeting.

Senior Lunch Project Expands

Hot lunches will be served to senior citizens in Half Moon Bay, the Board of Supervisors decided this week.

The supervisors also approved expenditures for 550 additional meals to be served in senior lunchrooms now operated in the cities of South San Francisco, Daly City, East Palo Alto, Redwood City and San Mateo.

The lunches are served under the direction of the Senior Nutritional Project of the Economic Opportunity Commission.

According to Thomas Jordan, director of the Area Agency on Aging, meals will be served at Half Moon Bay at the new senior citizens center, 1410 S. Cabrillo Highway, one-half mile south of the intersection of Highways 1 and 92.

Grand opening of the center is scheduled for April 29. It is planned to serve the meals on a daily basis there beginning sometime in May.

In other action this week, the county board enacted an emergency water rationing ordinance in response to a 25 per cent cutback in water ordered by the San Francisco Water Department.

Applying in all unincorporated parts of the county, the emergency ordinance sets rationing guidelines for several water districts and their 50,000 water consumers.

"Each water agency will adopt its own allocation and penalty provisions," Sid Cantwell, director of Public Works, told the board.

Effective immediately, the new water rules are:

• Watering of lawns, golf courses, parks and landscaping is limited to 50 per cent of 1976 use.

• Filling new swimming pools is prohibited.

• Washing cars, boats and trailer by hose is prohibited.

• Water connections for structures may be granted as long as the new rules are observed.

• All residential customers will aim for a 25 per cent reduction.

• Industrial and commercial customers will aim for a 10 per cent reduction.

The following water districts and service areas are affected by the emergency ordinance:

California Water Service Co. (30,000 customers primarily in cities); Citizens Utilities Co. (3,000 customers); Coastside County Water District (4,000); North Coast Cunty Water District (8,000 including Pacifica); Redwood City Water Department (800 in the Emerald Hills area); Also, Palo Alto Mutual Water Co. (700 in East Palo Alto); O'Connor Tract Mutual Water Co. (100 in East Palo Alto); Los Trancos Cunty Water District (215); and Cuesta La Honda Guild (250).

I KNOW

A cub reporter in Wichita rode in an open car down the main street with John F. Kennedy during his 1960 campaign tour. While the onlookers cheered lustily, the newspaperman begged, "Won't you tell the driver he's going too fast?" "It's alright," replied JFK, "they all know who I am." "I know," said the reporter, "but I'd like them to have a chance to see who's riding with you."

Show Accompaniment Lead by Music Master

BILL BULLARD, an accomplished arranger and composer, skillfully leads the musical accompaniment for the exciting revenues at world famed FINOCCHIO'S in San Francisco. Keeping the tempo lively at the piano, Bill is joined by ED GORMAN on sax and "SHEP" SHEPHERD on drums. The glamorous EVETTES, LA VERN CUMMINGS, VAL DE VERE and RUSSELL REED, are spotlighted in four shows nightly, except Mondays and Thursdays . . . Chef JULIUS RISCHE, whose culinary expertise has been appreciated these past seven years by countless diners visiting OLIVER'S in South San Francisco, started his career in 1940 on the Rhine. From Germany to Switzerland, Canada, Bermuda, then the U.S.A., Rische feels he is now an expert in all kinds of cooking . . . Visitors from the New England states especially appreciate the nautical accents found at THE MOONRAKER and CAPTAIN CHARLES in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Instead of the traditional "Men" and "Women" signs, these well known restaurants separate the "Buoys" from the "Gulls" . . . The seven DEL POMPADORES, a new group performing at the BAYHILL LOUNGE, San Bruno, on alternate Sunday evenings, will be appearing again May 1 . . . Located literally in the center of the South San Francisco Produce Terminal, YOLANDA'S guarantees fresh vegetables daily.

PURE PROFESSIONALISM

Enjoy Lyon's Super Spring Specials

Spring is really in bloom at LYON'S restaurants (San Mateo and San Bruno), where a "Spring Fling" of specials is now being featured. Liver and Onions, served as a complete dinner, is a $2.99 special and includes soup or salad, vegetable, fresh fruit, a choice of potatoes or rice, beverage and dessert. A Tequila Sunrise is the Spring cocktail special . . . CHANCE, the group appearing at THE MESA in downtown San Bruno, was formerly known to Peninsula on-the-towners as Cisco and Boston Mason. The "together" group is a show attraction wherever it appears . . . Tableside cooking is a treat for the eyes as well as the palate at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, Taylor Street entrance. For a memorable treat, PHIL recommends the Steak Shallot Armanino, cooked to order and flamed at the table . . . VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant is a winner every day of the week. The varied menu lists almost everything that swims in the sea and stream prepared the way you like it — steamed, boiled, fried, baked. The nearby Fish Depot, which also flies the Licata flag, provides fresh fish for take-home buyers.

Lehr's Greenhouse Hosts Music Celebs

Many of the top music stars headlining at the Boarding House in San Francisco dine nightly at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE, just a block away on Sutter Street. Seen dining in the beautifully-terraced new addition to the garden were John Stewart and Robert Klein.....Perfect holiday weather attracted scores of visitors to the coast of Pacifica, which meant business at ROMANO'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant was bustling. Besides the many who count themselves as among the regulars, a goodly number of out-of-towners are considering ENRICO ROMANO'S Rockaway Beach restaurant their new "home by the sea".....B.B.Q. Baby Ribs from SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City is a frequently catered dinner item ordered by Circle Star Theater performers. Sonny and Cher were most appreciative of the between-show convenience during their booking. Chubby Checker of the 1960's "Twist" rage and a party of four visited the award-winning restaurant one recent evening. When asked what he would like for dessert, Chubby said, "More ribs!" After another helping, he walked around the dining room and talked to the customers.

Coach and Horses Debuts New Menu

The new dinner menu in the Coach and Horses dining room at DUNFEY'S ROYAL COACH MOTOR HOTEL, San Mateo, was designed by Executive Chef CARL WENDT and ECKHARD LUBBA, food and beverage director. Roast Prime Rib of Beef is featured as the house specialty. Another new addition is a Table d'Hote Dinner, with Lobster Thermidor being the main entree.....The newest addition to DRIFTER, the group playing every Friday night for dancing at THE EAGLES LOUNGE, is KEVIN ZUCCI, bringing the number up to six members. Kevin, who excels in "Honky Tonk" piano, is a real blues singer.....Members of the International Journalists' Familiarization Tours, Shopping Centerpieces, USA, enjoyed luncheon at the Cannery's BEN JONSON restaurant as the guests of Manager PHIL CROWLEY.....English Cut Baby Lamb Chops, Chicken Saute Sec, and Canelloni are three of the well received items that are new on the menu at BEARDSLEY'S, Burlingame.

PUT-DOWN HUMOR

Don Rickles' verbal barbs fill the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe each evening, along with the melodies of the Mills Brothers, through April 28.

Operatic Arias In Steel Plant

By JANET PARKER

John Segale is lucky he has an office all his own at Bethlehem Steel. The paymaster for the South San Francisco industry says he can close his door anytime and burst out a song — most likely the German strains of "Der Rosenkavalier" or the Italian "Aida."

And his co-workers in adjoining offices probably don't even blink an eye.

The South San Francisco man has been singing opera for more than 30 years. He is the chorus member with the longest tenure in the San Francisco Opera Co., one of the most prestigious opera companies in the nation.

Segale joined the company in 1948 after years of singing just about any place he could find an accompanist.

Segale, a tenor, says his operatic talent has opened up doors he might not have otherwise known existed.

"Music is always going through my mind," he states.

His resounding voice fills every corner of the house when he practices, and his neighbors are serenaded by the strains of famous operas at the same time.

Opera, Segale says, is moving out of the formal opera houses, where women in furs and men in dress attire dominate the audience, into the suburban communities. He says he's glad to see it happen.

Brown-bag operas — abbreviated concerts held during lunch hours in business areas — are creating a new interest in opera, he said.

Suddenly, many people who once would have passed up an opportunity to hear a performance of the great operas are taking an active interest in the art.

"They're getting away from the older, drab operas," Segale states.

Lively, modern operas are turning up in the programs of famous companies. The San Francisco Opera Company last year, for example, presented the world premiere of "The Angle of Repose," a modern American opera centered on the Gold Rush Days and the wretched life of the miner.

"They're performing new things and throwing in the old at the same time."

And, he adds, more young adults than ever are being lured to the opera. Even teenagers dressed in every kind of garb imaginable wait for hours to obtain $3 standing room spots at the opera performances.

You can hear them flood in when the doors are opened.

The length of the opera season, he says, is proof that opera is on the upswing. The season has increased from four to 11 weeks during the years since Segale joined the company.

The accountant was constantly singing as he grew up and he never passed up a chance to use his vocal talents.

"I can still remember the first time I sang," Segale says.

He was gathered around a campfire with other Boy Scouts when he was only seven or eight years old. While other boys were singing traditional camping songs, he broke into "Springtime in the Rockies."

Later, in the fourth grade, he would sneak into the cloakroom at the rear of the classroom and sing melodies like "Me and My Shadow."

In fact, he said, it was a scoutmaster who first encouraged Segale to consider a musical career after hearing him sing at a Scout outing.

In high school, he sang as he made deliveries for his father's grocery store at Silver and Mission streets. Destinations and customers became the focus of the lyrics which he made up to fit well-known popular and classical music as he drove along.

After high school, Segale finally obtained formal vocal training. The USO was seeking entertainers at about that time and Segale signed up to perform in shows around the Bay Area.

In 1942, he joined the Coast Guard and sang with the band.

He recalls with enthusiasm the days of the "Chuck Wagon Boys" after leaving the service. In 1947, Bill Gavin, a local radio personality, phoned Segale's vocal instructor and asked for help starting an all-male chorus. Anxious to sing, Segale joined with three other young men, and, clad in cowboy hats, chaps and boots, performed four shows a day for two weeks at the Golden Gate Theater. They were billed with the hit movies of the day.

Two weeks later, the act closed and the Chuck Wagon Boys were out of business.

That's when the opportunity to audition for Kurt Adler, San Francisco Opera Company chorusmaster, arose, and Segale was accepted.

Since then, he has performed professionally throughout the state, including the famous Bohemian Club encampments along the Russian River, where notables such as Dennis Day, Phil Harris and even Herbert Hoover were part of the audience.
